

Jack Gole Elevated To Presidency of State B'nai B'rith

Special

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind.—Jack Gole of this city was elevated to the presidency and Leon Levin of Indianapolis was moved up to the first vice-presidency at the 22nd annual convention of the Indiana-Kentucky State Association of B'nai B'rith here last Saturday and Sunday.

Other officers elected were Lt. Richard Efroyson, second vice-president; William Stern of Gary, third vice-president, and Arnold A. Mayer of this city, secretary and treasurer. Mr. Mayer succeeds Andrew Fried, of Lafayette, who resigned.

The voting for the three offices of vice-president was close, with David Rubin, of Terre Haute, running for office for the first time in the State Association, finishing only one vote behind Mr. Levin. Lt. Efroyson won out in a close race with Harold Weinstein of East Chicago.

The convention also saw the organization of the Indiana-Kentucky State Association of Women's Auxiliaries, with Mrs. M. Feiwell, of South Bend as the first president. Other officers elected were Miss Helen Arkin, Hammond, first vice-president; Mrs. Harry Rosen of Elkhart, second vice-president; Mrs. Harold Platt, of Indianapolis, third vice-president; Mrs. Irving Garnitz, of South Bend, secretary; Mrs. Andrew Fried, of Lafayette, treasurer and Mrs. A. Field of Ft. Wayne, Councilor.

One of the best managed conventions in the Association's history, the affair included a reception and dance Saturday night, sessions Sunday morning and afternoon, and the installation banquet Sunday night, which was addressed by Prof. Francis McMahon, of Notre Dame University.

Directors elected were Jack Kammins, Indianapolis; Joseph Stiebler, Marion; George Glazer, Anderson; Sidney Passamanick, Louisville; Isadore Levine, Hammond; Isaac Hurwick, Kokomo; Ferd H. Kluga, Evansville; Lester Hurwich, Elkhart; Rabbi Meyer H. Simon, Lafayette; Louis Novick, Muncie; Larry Levy, Fort Wayne; David Rubin, Terre Haute; Rudolph Kohn, Michigan City; Hyman Cohen, East Chicago; Dr. Jacob Katz, Gary; Jack Spevack, South Bend, and David Levine, Vincennes.

Rabbi Julius L. Siegel

(1897-1942)

Extension of memorial tribute by Rabbi Adolph J. Feinberg of Hammond at Indiana-Kentucky B'nai B'rith Association convention in Michigan City, Indiana, Sunday, October 18.

JEWRY throughout the Middle West was shocked to learn but a few days ago of the sudden and untimely passing of Rabbi Julius L. Siegel of Temple Beth-El in Gary. A scholar, thinker, and leader in his community, his loss is keenly felt by those who shared with him the intellectual pursuits of life, as well as by those of whatever creed or race worked with him for the betterment of the human lot. Those who knew him well understood his spirit of selfless devotion to his work and his consecration to the arduous tasks of these critical days, labors which brought him prematurely to the grave in his forty-fifth year. Blending so well the qualities of scholarship and consecrated leadership, he made of his brief but full life a lesson in service to his people and his God. The poet well characterizes his life in singing:

"We live in deeds, not years; in thoughts, not breaths;
In feelings, not in figures on the dial.
We count time by heart-throbs. He most lives,
Who thinks the most, feels the noblest, acts the best."

Born in Austria of a rabbinical family of eminence, Julius Siegel came to America in his Bar Mitzvah year. He received his early training at the Yeshivah Etz Hayyim in Chicago, and was ordained with honor a Rabbi in Israel at Yeshivah College in 1921. His scholarly graduate work undertaken at Yale University and at Dropsie College culminated at the University of Chicago in a Ph.D. degree and the publication of his significant thesis on the Scholia of Bar Hebraeus on the Books of Psalms. Other scholarly productions from the pen of our esteemed friend and colleague include the translation of Bialik's Hala-cha and Aggada and an exhaustive Hebrew Thesaurus, left unfinished when the grim reaper brought so abrupt an end to his labors.

Following his ordination, Rabbi Siegel served with distinction congregations in Toronto, Chicago, and, for the past six years, Gary. The fruits of his scholarship and the brilliance of his intellect, he shared with his disciples, not only in the communities he served so well, but in his formal classes as instructor in Semitic languages at the University of Chicago and at the College of Jewish Studies in the metropolitan city. The popular, cultural forum which he created in Gary made his spiritual influence widely felt among Jews and Christians alike. Although a member of a score of fraternal, scholarly, and professional organizations, he seldom stood before their assemblies for in his inherent modesty he eschewed the lime-light and public acclaim.

Rabbi Siegel's passing unto his eternal reward during the week in which is read in the Synagogue the words of Genesis: "Aleph toldos Noah, Noah ish zadik, tamim hayah b'dorosav, es-HaElohim hishaleh Noah," affords us a fitting expression of tribute. It may indeed be said of our revered colleague as it was said of the patriarch of old, "Noah was a righteous man, whole-hearted in his generation, Noah walked with God." The Midrash tells us that this expression, occurring after "These are the generations of Noah" (usually followed by the names of children), implies that righteousness, wholeheartedness, and walking with God were as much the progeny of Noah and endowed him with immortality as his physical offspring, the progenitors of mankind. So do we think of Rabbi Siegel, righteous in thought and deed, wholehearted in his devotion to great causes, a man who walked with God. These qualities will forever enshrine him in the hearts of those who knew and loved him.

A short life indeed was that of Julius L. Siegel, counted in years, yet it was long enough to inspire and bless American Israel for two decades. His work and memory will long endure. We record his passing with profound sorrow, for of him it may well be said, "zoher zadik liv'rasha." The memory of the righteous is a blessing to all of us who cherish it.

Hadassah Repudiates Ichud Party As Mrs. de Sola Pool Reelected; Levinthal Holds Z.O.A. Position

Special

NEW YORK—With Hadassah repudiating the stand of Henrietta Szold on the Ichud question, the combined convention of that organization and the Zionist Organization of America reached a climax here Saturday night when the joint session passed a resolution opposing the program of the newly formed Ichud party. The Ichud party advocates a bi-national state in Palestine.

News that Hadassah was ready to take part in a joint resolution came as a bombshell to one of the most successful conventions of the Z.O.A. in its history. The Hadassah board had already decided to take no stand on the Ichud party at one of its meetings, and even at a meeting directly preceding the convention had made no change in its original decision. Thursday a committee of the Z.O.A. was told, however, that a special meeting Wednesday night had reconsidered the question, and that Hadassah might be willing to join in a resolution provided its wording was not violent. The Z.O.A. committee agreed and the joint meeting Saturday night passed the resolution, termed by Rabbi James G. Heller, Nachman Goldman of the Jewish Agency, and others, as a historic decision of American Zionism. Mr. Goldman said the move indicated the political maturity of the two organizations.

Levinthal, Mrs. de Sola Pool Reelected

Judge Louis E. Levinthal of Philadelphia was reelected president of the Zionist Organization and Dr. James G. Heller of Cincinnati was reelected as chairman of the national administrative council of the Z.O.A. Dr. Harry Friedenwald of Baltimore and Judge Julian Mack of New York were chosen as honorary vice-presidents.

Mrs. Tamar de Sola Pool was reelected president of Hadassah after a heated session provoked by her announcement that she did not wish to run for reelection because of the delegates' adoption of the resolution repudiating the Ichud program. Miss Juliette Benjamin was reelected secretary of the Hadassah. At the same session the women's Zionist organization adopted a budget of $1,210,000 for war emergency activities, health and education programs, child welfare, refugee care and land reclamation work in Palestine. The delegates voted to send $5,000 to Miss Henrietta Szold in Palestine "to be used for any project she wishes to further."

Float New Loan for $2,500,000

The floating of the $2,500,000 Zionist loan in America for the purchase of land in Palestine, was announced at a luncheon arranged by the Jewish National Fund for Z.O.A. delegates.

The loan will be repayable within ten years. It will be raised by selling individual subscriptions of $1,000 each, yielding 4% interest. About $250,000 has already been subscribed, it was disclosed. The Chase National Bank of New York will act as registrar and paying agent.

This is the second loan of its kind to be offered by the Jewish National Fund. A $1,000,000 loan was floated in 1939. All obligations resulting from the 1939 issue were met prior to the launching of the new loan, Dr. Israel Goldstein, chairman of the JNF, reported.

Purim ..... March 21
Passover ..... April 20-27
Holidays begin at sundown the day before the date designated.

The editor's chair,

I don't know how to describe the annual convention of the Indiana-Kentucky State Association last week-end in Michigan City, but I can tell you this, I have never been more discouraged in all my time as an editor. Everyone was splendid, and the hospitality of the Michigan City community was unexcelled, but the demonstration of who holds control of the Association and how they use this control was one of the deepest disappointments to me in recent years. I suppose I'll get over it in time.

The Zionist and Hadassah convention in New York last week was one of the most interesting I've ever attended. The Indianapolis group was the largest at the convention from any city even near our size and our distance from New York. There must have been thirty of us from Indianapolis, not to mention the others from Fort Wayne, Terre Haute and the Northern section of the State. I didn't get to meet any of the other delegations except that from Terre Haute, which naturally would be headed by Mrs. John Tatelman. I believe the Z.O.A. is overlooking a good piece of publicity here, for Mrs. Tatelman, who ranks high in the estimation of Zionist nationally was not a delegate to the Hadassah convention, but rather a delegate to the Z.O.A. convention. Also from Terre Haute were Mrs. Cahn, present Hadassah president there and Mrs. Weisman, another indefatigable worker.

TOWN CRIER WAS ON THE nominating committee this year for the board of The Jewish Federation, and was quite surprised at the evident willingness of the other members of the committee to see that the community had a chance to vote for the men to this important board. Dr. Harry Jacobs was very fine as chairman, and almost everyone agreed that those who had performed some of the jobs in the community in the past year should be rewarded, other things being equal. Even when it came to the point about naming two or three more men than the places to be filled, so that the

Jack Finkelstein Goes Into the Army

INDIANA in general and Fort Wayne in particular loses an exceptionally capable Jewish leader with the induction of Jack Finkelstein, Executive Director of the Fort Wayne Jewish Federation into the armed forces.

Courageous almost to a fault, and possessing clear insight into the Jewish position, Mr. Finkelstein never hesitated to espouse a cause he thought was right, regardless of the forces arrayed against him.

Although trained social workers more often than not answer to the beck and call of the men of wealth of the community, Mr. Finkelstein could on many occasions be found adamantly holding to his own viewpoint against those whose philosophy and conviction ended with the "shah shah" attitude.

In the social service field only a few short years, Mr. Finkelstein had already earned a place for himself in the councils of many groups. His city, boasting a smoothly-functioning full program of activities, became known nationally during his stay there for the generosity to local and non-local Jewish causes. With only 1200 souls, Fort Wayne normally could be expected to raise $60,000 in its annual drive.

Like the entire Fort Wayne Jewish community, The Post wishes Mr. Finkelstein Godspeed, and looks forward to the day when he will be able to return to his civilian duties in this State.

A Voice in The Dark

THE COUNCIL of Jewish Welfare Funds and Federations is still at it. A small, weak voice in the dark emanating from Buffalo timorously throws into the arena the hope "that the plan of the Council of Jewish Welfare Funds and Federations for a single, central operating organization in the civic protective field be vigorously and promptly pursued to a successful conclusion".

That resolution has a familiar ring.

Wasn't it at Chicago that the same organization in its national convention became so sanguine about its chances of persuading the Big Four to merge that anyone casting the least shadow of doubt on the proceedings was considered unfriendly.

Who is the nigger in the woodpile anyway?

Could it be the anti-Defamation League which is holding up the parade? In Chicago this spring it was Mr. Monsky who was most vigorous and hopeful in his talk to the group, while the American Jewish Committee was the culprit. Since then, the picture seems to have changed, with some other group said to be the villain.

The ADL and the American Jewish Committee continue to declare that there is no duplication, and still the CJWF continues to pass resolutions asking that the groups pool their efforts for the common good. If only one could convince the other either way, at least the public could make a decision.

What would be the result if the Big Four would show as much initiative and energy in combatting the enemies of democracy as they do in stalling off the demands of the American Jewish public?

Current Comment

Synagogue Council for Detroit Urged by Rabbi B. Benedict Glazer.—A Synagogue Council in Detroit will be a far-sighted and helpful step in the progress of our community toward maturity. The religious agencies of Christianity have discovered the power of this kind of association. The Federal Council of Churches in America and the local Federation of Churches are cases in point. In a Synagogue Council, each representative group will preserve its historic convictions, but in matters affecting "K'lal Yisroel" they will close ranks to present a common front and to articulate, wherever possible, the voice of unanimity. The suggestion to form a Synagogue Council has been made already to many of the local Rabbis and has won their approval. Preliminary steps will soon be taken to perfect such an organization. The Jewish citizens of Detroit need and should welcome a strong and effective Synagogue Council.

The Reconstructionist Interprets the Indiana

University Hillel Foundation High Holiday Services.—The Indiana University Hillel Foundation recently decided, when planning High Holiday services, to arrange two—instead of the usual three—services: one of the Orthodox, and one for the "Conservative-Reform" groups. This is most interesting because it points to a development in Jewish life which may perhaps lead eventually to the realignment of American Jewry into two major wings: the Orthodox and the non-Orthodox. We have more than a suspicion that the non-Orthodox group may crystallize around the Reconstructionist program. It is certainly getting more and more difficult to distinguish between some Reform Temples and some Conservative congregations. Even the social differences, once prominent, are beginning to fade. The new synthesis appears to be the forerunner of an American type of progressive Judaism. It would be worthwhile hearing from the Indiana Hillel director how well the new arrangement worked out.

community might have the right to vote, instead of our small committee doing the actual selection. Town Crier sensed that the committee was favorably inclined.

BUT THERE WAS ONE MAN who had a different opinion. He brought out all his old bromides about the humiliation of a man who might lose if the community were allowed to vote, (this is certainly testimony to the sportsmanship of the men of this city) the fact that the community could name and nominate men by petition of five members, that pressure groups would gang up for certain individuals, and everything he could think of, which has been brought up against democracy by those who are not for it. But one by one Town Crier broke these down, until this man went to the constitution, and after saying he was sure of his ground because he had written that certain article, showed where the nominating committee could name only one man for each place.

TOWN CRIER then said he had no alternative but to resign and that if his resignation would bring the issue before the Federation board he was content. But it seemed that the other members of the committee were inclined to agree with Town Crier and as a result Town Crier will submit a minority report embodying the principle that the nominating committee should not be the body to do the actual election, that in almost every year in the past that had been the case, and that only if the nominating committee were named by the community, instead of by the Federation, would the present system have a semblance of democracy.

THE SURPRISING THING was the feeling of the members of the committee who were perfectly willing, if such an arrangement could be devised, to let the community do the actual voting. In fact I believe that more than one of the members of the committee will be willing to sign Town Crier's minority report. It is surprising, but actually that is not the word, because who should it be surprising to see men who are leaders of a group in these United States say that democracy should not be practiced in addition to being preached. It is sort of late to be arguing that the people who are asked to support all community enterprises, and who asked to give to the Welfare Fund, can't have the privilege of voting for the leaders who make the decisions for the community.

HERE AND THERE: The community is still talking about Hadassah's opening luncheon. Almost 150 new members attended the affair which originally was planned for 350, but had to be expanded at the last minute to take care of 400. Praise for the splendid start of Hadassah goes to Mrs. Shoalem Ettinger. Now if the Indianapolis Zionist District can do only as well, that would really be something, eh Town Crier?
